Gah~!
WHAT THE HECK DO YOU WANT TO DO?!

Sometimes Italians do inexplicable things like that.

In reality the Soviet Union simply renamed Russia
But the name Russia is much cuter (— *) That's what Belarus also says

Russia is a really interesting country

Russian soldiers exclaimed "You just turn the knob and water comes out!" and joyfully took the water spigots
They didn't know about the existence of radar until the war was over
Airplanes were flown by the naked eye
A Russian soldier didn't know how to wind up his wrist watch so he ended up wearing watches all up and down his arms *
Although Russia frequently appears innocent and that there are a lot of lovely sights to see like in the country more than a fair share of cruel stories come from Russia as well
Perhaps by stopping a sense of honesty it will conversly become brutality

And that's it for Hetalia chapter 2

TIN:

[Does anyone know where Hirmanya got the story? I spent more time trying to research that than I did on translating! The main stories I found were about Russian soldiers + wristwatches and involved looting and stealing.]

[Main example. Flag on the Reichstag (From here)]

[Ex A Russian soldier stopped a German girl and demanded her watch. She said she didn't have one. The soldier refused to believe her. Despite their difficulties in communicating, the girl finally convinces him. "A pretty girl like you ought to have a watch," he said, pulling up her sleeve and revealing an arm covered with watches. He selected the most attractive one and gave it to her (from here)]

[Ex "In the farmyard, dozens of Russian soldiers' arms were covered in watches nearly up to their elbows. were dancing in celebration." (from the autobiography)]
